May Day Queen To Be Chosen By Student Vote Next Week

Twenty-nine coeds, representing fraternities, sororities, and residence halls, will compete for the title of May Day queen at the student elections, Tuesday and Wednesday at the Student Union.

The student body will elect seven finalists to ride on the Sucky float and lead the May Day parade Saturday, May 8. The queen, who will be selected by a group of judges on beauty, personality, and poise, will be crowned at the dance Saturday night by Dr. Rhea Taylor, professor of history and Sucky's sponsor. The remaining finalists will constitute the queen's court and will also be presented at the dance.

Voting at the Student Union will be from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m. on both days. For a student's vote to be complete, he must select seven finalists on his ballot. If this is not done, the ballot will be declared invalid and discarded.

Queen candidates and their sponsors are:

Boyd Hall, Donna Sturdevan; Jewell Hall, Janet Jo Fisher; Hamilton House, Mildred Correll; Lydia Brown House, Pat Seuder; Patterson Hall, Jerry Kelley; Newman Club, Lucille Gentry.

Jewell Hall Annex, Anna Mae Childress; Alpha Delta Pi, Barbara Leet; Alpha Gamma Delta, Betty Ann Latimer; Alpha Xi Delta, Maxine Thompson; Delta Zeta, Carol Walters; Kappa Alpha Theta, Lucille Mills; Kappa Delta, Jean Skinner.

Awards Included In Spring Stylus On Sale Tuesday

Five awards for outstanding student contributions in literature will be included in the spring issue of the Stylus, which will go on sale Tuesday, according to Carol Sue Caton, editor.

The Stylus will honor two students for their poetic compositions. Winners are James R. Whitehouse Jr., Louisville, for his poem, "The Wall," and Eleanor Wright, Lexington, author of the poem, "Afternoon Bridge in the Terrace Room." Whitehouse's poem will appear in the spring issue while Miss Wright's composition was published in the fall.

Other award-winning entries to be published is the Phi Beta Kappa high school poetry award, Lilly Anne Gregory, a senior at Lancaster, submitted the winning composition, "Footprints."

The Dantzer award for prose has been presented to Helen Hammon for "The Cocoon." This article will appear in the spring issue.

The fifth award, a poem appearing in the fall Stylus, will go to Beverly Davis for "Nightfall." This final honor is known as the Farquhar award.

The Stylus is sponsored jointly by the English Department, English Club, and Chi Delta Phi.

Judiciary Proceedings To Be Open To SGA

Discipline Cases Are Excepted In New Ruling

Judiciary committee affairs will be made known to the Student Government Association to a limited degree in the future.

The Judiciary committee is a five-man group which handles student disciplinary cases and is in charge of parking rules, regulations, and violations on campus.

In the past, the procedures of this committee have been carried out behind closed doors. Fear of publicity was the main reason previously given against making the proceedings public, especially with reference to disciplinary cases.

Turner Heads Committee
Formulated by a committee headed by Capp Turner, United Student, the resolutions passed by SGA Monday night state that:

1. Minutes be kept at the meetings of the Judiciary committee.

2. Excerpts of these meetings, with the exception of disciplinary cases, be read before SGA.

3. Assembly members may attend all meetings of the Judiciary committee except those dealing with disciplinary cases.

4. Rules and regulations pertaining to campus parking must be submitted to SGA for approval.

5. No disciplinary case handled by the Judiciary committee may be appealed to SGA.

Certain Procedures Open
In accordance with these resolutions, assembly members now have the right to witness proceedings of the Judiciary committee in the handling of parking rules, regulations, and violations.

A. D. Kirwan, dean of men, told assembly members that he "would not be responsible for disciplinary dispositions if people without responsibility" were allowed to try disciplinary cases before the public (SGA).

Kirwan Gives Warning
Dean Kirwan said he would not deal with the Judiciary committee if he were to continue as dean of students and if a resolution permitting attendance of disciplinary cases by SGA members were passed. The resolution was later amended to forbid attendance of disciplinary cases or to permit them to be made public.

Previously, the Judiciary committee has recommended actions involving disciplinary cases to the dean of men, who, by law, has the power to deal with such cases.

Dean Kirwan will relinquish his duties as dean of students, effective July 1, and become a full-time instructor in the History Department. This action was approved at the April meeting of the Board of Trustees.

Dr. Leslie L. Martin, assistant director of counseling, University Personnel Office, will succeed Dean Kirwan.

'Dream Girl' Will Open Wednesday

"Dream Girl" by Elmer Rice will be presented Wednesday through Saturday, May 8 by the Guignol Theater. Curtain time will be 8:30 p.m. C.D.T.

Action in the play takes place in New York city during modern times. There are 18 scenes in all, half of which are dream sequences of Georgiana Allerton, who dreams of the three men in her life: Jim Lucas, her brother-in-law; George Hand, a play-boy; and Clark Redfield, a newspaper reporter.

In this comedy-drama, Georgiana is afraid to face reality. In the end she marries Clark Redfield whom she has despised from the beginning because of the fun he made of her dreams.

The cast of characters includes Georgiana, Lella Sherman; Lucy Allerton, Faye Williams; Radio Announcer, Jim Holloway; Dr. J. Gilmore Perceval, Lew Odom; George Allerton, Lew Odom; Miriam Allerton Lucas, Martha Townsend.

The production is under the direction of William Challenor. Other members of the production staff are Betty Stull, prompter; George Moore, electrician; David Stull, stage manager; Mary Lewis Patterson, publicity; and Page Williams, box office.

The play was written by Mr. Rice for his wife, Betty Field, in 1945. The box office opens Monday. Tickets will be $1.25, adults, and 70c for students.

IFC Will Present Plan For Lowering 1.3 Rule To UK Faculty Today

New ID Pictures Should Be Taken

All students who plan to return to UK next fall should have their pictures made for the 1954-55 ID cards next week, Ken Kuhn, athletic publicity director, has announced.

The photographer will be in Room 127 of the Student Union from 9 to 12 a.m. and 1 to 5 p.m. today and from Monday through Friday of next week.

A special night session will be open from 7 to 9 p.m. Wednesday and Thursday for students who cannot have their pictures taken during the day.

National Pep Club Votes To Convene Here Next Spring

The National Intercollegiate Pep Council voted to have its second annual conference at UK next spring, Dave Linkous, president of Sucky, announced Monday night.

Linkous said that Kentucky was chosen as the next meeting site by the delegates who attended this year's convention at Oklahoma A&M, Stillwater, Oklahoma, April 22-24. Several years ago, UK and the Sucky Circle were hosts to members of the Southeastern Pep Conference.

Pat Segal, University of Florida, was elected president of the NIPC for the 1954-55 term. Five delegates were also elected to serve on the Executive Board. Included was Debbie Schwarz, one of UK's representatives.

Oklahoma A&M cheerleaders for next fall were chosen by the conference delegates. UK was represented at the meeting by Sally Cornell, Bill Webb, Dave Linkous, and Miss Schwarz.

Law Day Plans Include Moot Court, Luncheon

Highlights of UK's annual observance of Law Day, scheduled for next Friday, will include:

1. Courtroom competition to determine the Law College's representatives at the National Moot Court contest.

2. Panel discussion on trial procedure featuring three prominent Louisville attorneys.

3. Annual Law Day luncheon, honoring the law class of 1954, with announcement of the winners in a will-drafting contest.

4. Demonstration trial by four senior law students.

In announcing Law Day plans, Dean Elvis J. Stahl Jr. of the Law College has issued a special invitation to all students, University staff and faculty members, and the public to attend the day-long observance.

Council Wants Fraternity Grades Figured Together

A new plan by the Interfraternity Council to lower the scholarship requirements for fraternities will be presented to a subcommittee of the UK Faculty this afternoon.

The plan is designed to modify a present faculty requirement which states that all fraternities must maintain a 1.3 standing or be put on social probation.

Leslie Morris, retiring IPC president, said early this week that the purpose of the new plan is two-fold: to lower the required all fraternity average to the all men's average and to give fraternities now on social probation a chance to improve scholarship before losing their charters.

National Honorary Elects UK Junior

Nelson F. Britt, a junior in pre-law, was elected national treasurer of Eta Sigma Phi, classical honorary fraternity, at its 26th national convention last week-end in St. Louis.

Britt, who succeeds John B. Austin of Tulane University, is a native of Lexington. He is treasurer of the UK chapter of Eta Sigma Phi, is vice president of Alpha Sigma Phi social fraternity, a member of the Inter-Fraternity Council, and of the Political Science Club. He is a graduate of Henry Clay High School.

Britt is the second UK representative to be elected to a national office in Eta Sigma Phi since the honorary was re-activated on the campus in 1948. In 1952-53 Jack Woodhouse of UK served as national president.

According to Morris, the plan is aimed at preventing individual fraternities that fall below a 1.3 standing from being penalized, provided that the all fraternity average is equal to the all men's average.

"The reason we feel that this (new plan) is good is because, even if there are some fraternities with less than a 1.3 standing, it's obvious that individual fraternities are not hurting the all men's average," he said.

"If," he said, "the all fraternity average falls below the all men's average (1.3), the old rule will, under our plan, go into effect again. That is, if that happens, all fraternities will have to keep a 1.3 standing."

Average Was Hurt
The present requirement was put into effect, Morris said, because the all fraternity average was hurting the all men's average.

"Under the present rule, even though over half the fraternities are subject to social probation if they don't improve this semester, there is still the paradox of the all fraternity average exceeding the all men's average," he said.

Morris said that fraternities had been hurt because, when grades were first computed for the all men's average, graduate students were included. He said that grades are now being figured without graduate students.

These are the figures given by Morris concerning grade averages:

All men's average, with graduate students included—1.36.
All fraternity average, with few graduates included—1.33.

"We feel confident that the all men's average will drop below the all fraternity average when computed without graduate students," he said.

Incompletes Hurt Average
Morris also said that fraternity averages had been hurt by the fact that incompletes were counted as E's in computing grades because they were computed before the deadline for figuring incompletes.

Under IFC's new plan, averages would not be computed before all grades were in.

IFC had planned to ask SGA to endorse its plan Monday night, but due to the lack of a quorum at the time the plan was presented, SGA was unable to take official action.

It did, however, express unofficial endorsement of the plan.

If the Faculty sub-committee does not reject the plan, it will be presented at the next Faculty meeting.

Morris said that members of the sub-committee have approved three of the plan's six points and have briefly discussed the other three.

Members of the sub-committee include Dr. Robert L. Mills, Registrar, Dean Herman E. Spivey of the Graduate School, and Dean M. M. White of the College of Arts and Sciences.

The IFC committee that has been working on the problem are Bob Burkhardt, chairman, Jim Buell, Carter Glass, Charles Palmer and Morris.

Entire Text Of IFC Plan Is Listed

The Interfraternity Council has adopted a resolution calling for a change in the present faculty rule governing fraternity scholastic standings.

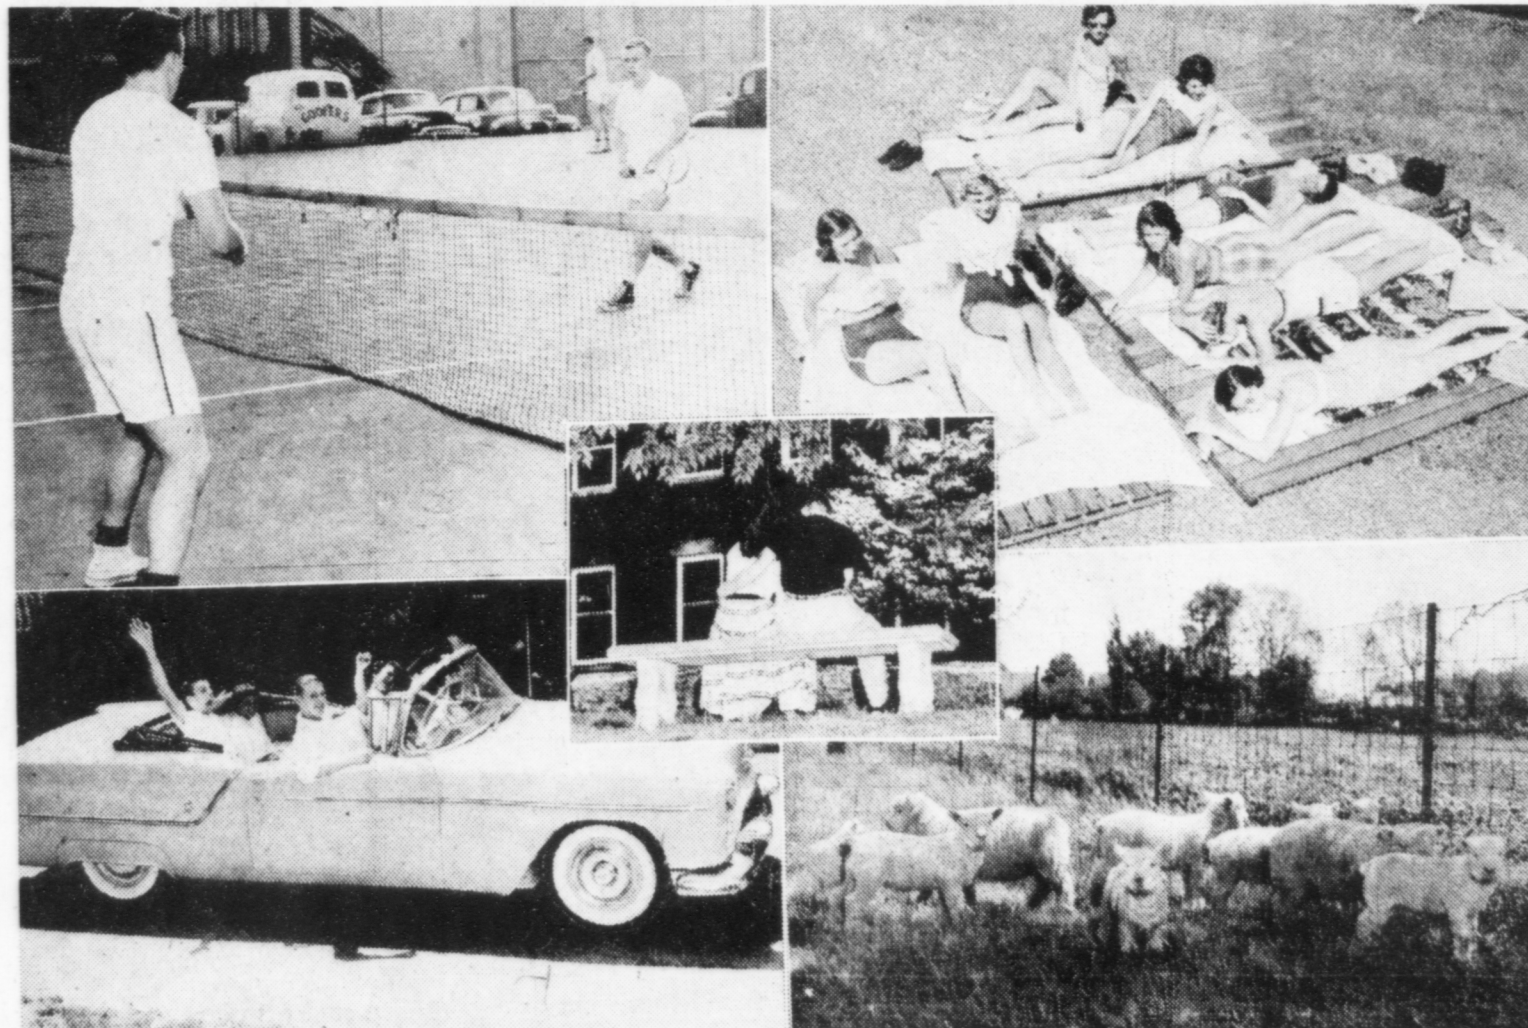

Council representatives plan to present the resolution to a subcommittee of the faculty at a meeting scheduled for 4 this afternoon.

Text of the resolution, as released by IFC officials, follows.

"1. If, at the close of the school year 1954-55 or any year thereafter, the all-fraternity average does not exceed or equal 1.3 (the all-men's average), any fraternity which has an average standing for both actives and pledges lower than 1.3 shall be placed on social probation for the following year. Social probation shall prevent the fraternity from holding any social affair to which other than members are invited.

"2. If, at the close of the school year, any fraternity has an average standing for both actives and

SPRING HAS SPRUNG!—When the tennis courts are crowded even when no PE classes are in session, when girls "go on the roof" and sacrifice the top layers of their skins to the sun, when convertible tops go down and the number of beach parties, planned and informal, go up, when the Experiment Farm gets its annual increase in tenants around the sheep and dairy barns, and, naturally, when Cupid starts working overtime, you know Spring has finally arrived!

IFC's New Plan Is Worthwhile, Deserves Faculty Endorsement

IFC's plan to lower the present 1.3 scholastic requirement for fraternities deserves the attention and support of the UK faculty. The plan, which is fair to everyone concerned, is thorough and logical. It takes into account factors which were not considered when the ruling was put into effect on April 21, 1952.

Leslie Morris, present IFC president, will be succeeded by Charlie Palmer next week. Both men have worked at the problem of fraternity scholarship honestly and intelligently. The solution, in the form of IFC's plan, is much clearer, and makes more sense than the present ruling does.

First, there is the matter of penalizing individual fraternities when they fall below the required 1.3 overall. Many of the fraternities which fall into this class, and which are either on social probation now or stand to be so placed next semester, find themselves caught like fish on a hook from which it is impossible to escape.

If it is true that a fraternity might have been placed on social probation—and therefore in a position to lose its charter—because of incompletes being counted as failures, or because graduate students' grades were computed with the all men's average, there is no other choice but to except IFC's plan.

Since 1952, IFC and the individual fraternities have had a lot of time to think. They've matured, so to speak, and can see their problem as clearly as anyone else. This new plan, whereby each fraternity would pull for the other—without destroying individual initiative—gives the fraternities a chance to do two things: to remove themselves from their dangerous position and to enter into a more evenly based competition with Independents.

There is no doubt that IFC has acted admirably in seeking to find a way to solve its own problem. It has gone so far as to include a provision whereby the present ruling would go back in effect if they should fail to make their mark. In short, IFC is asking for more self-rule on the grounds that it is capable of tending to its own problem in its own way—a way which is clear and which has every chance of working if approved by the faculty. There is no logical reason for rejecting it.

It Would Be Wise Not To Walk Alone

Unfortunately, there have been several instances lately when UK coeds have been accosted by strangers while walking across the campus at night. The danger of such a situation can hardly be over-emphasized. These strangers, who are more than likely non-University students, could easily be sex criminals or maniacs.

In view of this fact, warnings have been issued to University women—especially those living in the dorms—not to walk across the campus alone at night. However, there are occasions when this warning cannot be heeded. For instance, students often find it necessary to go to the library at night—or to work or attend classes. Companions cannot always be found to walk with, necessitating a violation of the warning.

Because of the situation, some plan for assuring safety must be adopted. The first step in such a plan would be the installation of better lighting along campus walks by the University, especially in the regions of the anthropological museum and the walks leading through the Botanical Gardens.

Furthermore, each student should be encouraged to report any instance of molestation to the proper authorities—either the campus police or the dean of women. With this information in hand, steps can be taken to prevent other like occurrences. There is no excuse for such a situation to exist at any university.

People Who Squash Spiders Are Bugs

Most people hate bugs. Not just certain kinds of bugs, but all bugs—little ones, big ones, and imaginary bugs. Women, especially, are guilty of this crime against bugs. Just do as much as point out a spider or a beetle and they do a double flip, squeal, and beg you to squash them.

Well, we have long maintained that this hatred and fear of such tiny things as bugs is downright inhumane, and, with this in mind, it was a great pleasure to find a pro-bug book in the bookstore, "The Life of the Spider," by John Crompton, an English entomologist, an entomologist being a person who studies insects.

As far as we were concerned, Mr. Crompton did a bang-up job of making that wonderful weaver of webs something that no sensible person could dislike. We found, in addition to a lot of good British humor, a lot of interesting facts about spiders—facts we intend to spread around whenever conversation offers the slimmest opening.

Spiders, we were delighted to read, come in all shapes and forms, have all kinds of varying, interesting habits, and, contrary to popular belief, do not always kill and eat their husbands after the honeymoon is over. Furthermore, we found that spiders are just as intelligent—if not more so—than the people who insist on squashing them with their feet or other large objects.

We read with relish Mr. Crompton's shattering of the popular superstition that the bite of certain spiders—even from the so-called killers such as the Black Widow or Tarantula—is fatal. It seems that spider bites are usually nothing more than mild irritations, depending on the sensitivity and resistance of the individual bitten. Even at its worse, a spider's bite is no more irritating than it is for a spider to be stepped on, swatted, or swept out of house and home merely because he is a spider. We are not advocating a spider watching club, but we do feel that spiders should be thought of in a more lenient manner. Of course, it is hard to be lenient when one crawls down your back.

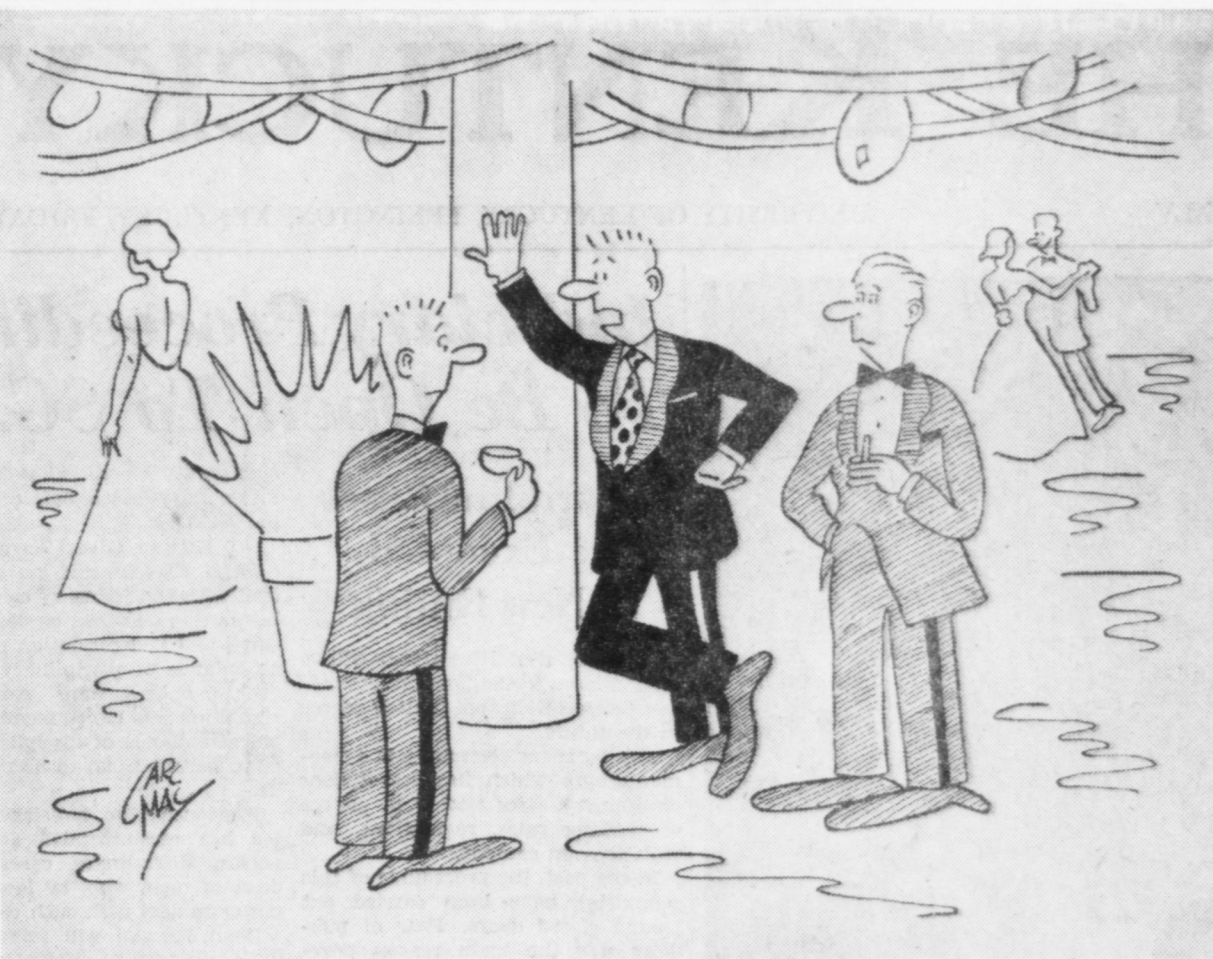

Our Readers Speak: Some Quite Bitterly . . .

Dear Editor:

For the past several months, the Kernel has been running stories which are a disgrace to the University, to good Americans, and to decent journalism. It appears that every time something rotten takes place, your newspaper, if you can call it that, sticks its yellow-sheeted nose into it.

Why is it that you people are not content to print some of the good things and let the bad ones go? It doesn't do anyone any good to read about these things. For examples, I can list the honor system, with reference to what you wrote about cheating, the slum barracks, and other things like that.

Maybe it would be a good idea for the press to be censored, or, at least, controlled by people who know what's best. As far as my friends and I are concerned, the Kernel is an example of what hap-

Morris Gets The Roving Urge; Well, It Could Be Spring Fever

By LESLIE MORRIS

We were just thinking the other day—that we're probably not the only one who gets a little bored with the roaring nite-life of Lexington, where for a real jazzy time you stand in line at the local movie-house to see the latest B-release or crack heads at the ol' Joyland saloon. Suppose you were getting educated in windy Chicago—well that's different (and you sophisticated out-of-staters just flip the page, thank'ya). Let's say we're at Northwestern or the University of Chicago, and you have a date—now, let's see, where-to-go: well, there's a couple or play offerings, namely (for instance) "Me and Juliet," hot off the New York griddle, and Eddie Bracken's "Seven Year Itch"—but you've heard that "Juliet" was written on scrap paper by the here-tofore fabulous team of Rodgers and Hammerstein (saved only by peppy Joan McCracken), and the "Itch" you've probably all ready seen since its been in the big town for eight record-breaking months. So you take a look at the McCormick-McCarthy Bugle to see what's playing the hotel-spots.

The Hilton hostelry has its regular ice show (always worth the tab), the Palmer House's swank Empire Room has Dorothy Shay, and if it's a warm April eve there's nothing like a drive out along the beautiful Lake Shore overlooking the Michigan waters—to the open-air Beachwalk of the Edgewater Beach Hotel, where Patti Page is putting on the "Doggie."

If you wanta save dough, well—Chicago has movies too—but you'll have to sit through a Frankie Lane hog-calling to get to the double-bill. If you're tired of talent-on-the-hook, you could visit any neighborhood movie palace (all the two-biters have CinemaScope), or you could go for a roller-coaster ride, courtesy of Cinemas (but this takes dough). If you're dead-broke you could take off for the beach, figuratively speaking, cause there's free miles of it right off Main Street, or, if it's a cool night, there's always the summer opera in Grant Park.

If you're loaded and have a date with a model, you'll go to Mike Fritzel's big-time cabaret on the North Side, the Chez Paree (now owned by those well-known Chi-boys, Dinky Halper and Babe, Baron), where you'll see "Daddy" Danny Thomas, still the Number One nite-club entertainer in the Hew-Hess-Hay. Or there's the Beachcomber, the Singapore, and the Shangri La. If you didn't call the right number, and your date's several tiers from Cafe Society, you won't be seen at Shaky Jake's, or The Sewer (don't be misled by the name—this place is a dump), or, as a last resort, The Ruptured Duck.

Well—how'd we get off on that subject? Chicago is a long way off and who can afford all that anyway and we wouldn't leave UK for the world, etc. We're stuck, let's face it—nothin'. Just the lousy movies, Eisenhower, Tony Martin, Bob Hope, Tam O'Shanter's Lew Worshaw, the Kentucky Derby—let's read a good book. . .

To change what subject there is hereabouts, we thought the critics handled Big Crosby's first TV effort a trifle harshly a couple of months ago, but after seeing Der Bingle's latest offering (last Sunday) we suggest that he retire on his laurels and leave Mr. Kinetoscope alone—you know what happened to vaudeville.

We didn't know you cared—but some one of our readers mentioned the fact that the only CinemaScope-to-date upon which we haven't commented was Greg Peck's "Night People." Well, it's old news, but it's our opinion that this controversial movie can be marked up on the credit side. A few more such goodies and we'll forget about the ninety cents we spent to see Terry Moore's "Khyber" ka-flop.

We May Be Asked To Aid Indo-China

Nothing could strike any closer to the heart of the college student than the fact that American troops may have to be sent to bolster French forces in Indo-China. Many of us saw action in Korea, and it's a safe bet that no one particularly felt like dying in that little-known land. It's even safer to bet that none of us want to risk our lives in some stinking jungle in Asia.

Nevertheless, the unpleasant fact remains that we're living in the era of the small war—the age of political stakes placed on small battlefields. Atomic and hydrogen weapons, carrying with them the threat of mass retaliation by either of the two great power blocs now facing and opposing each other—Russia and the United States—has made the chances for an all-out, total war unlikely. The loser has everything to lose, literally, and chances are the winner wouldn't have much left to feel victorious about.

Slowly, we have had to realize the cold efficiency with which the Soviets exploit the human resources of once unimportant areas of the world to accomplish their goal of domination. Likewise, we have had to come to understand that the end results of these limited wars are of the utmost importance on the diplomatic bargaining table. Men and nations are being used as pawns in a game with no clear-cut outcome in sight.

Even so, there is no doubt that the use of American troops can give the free nations a margin of safety in a world locked in unceasing hostilities. As college students, most of us understand the vast responsibility placed upon the shoulders of the American nation—responsibility placed upon us because we are the strongest of the free nations. It is with this in mind that the prospect of sending American troops to Indo-China should be viewed.

Crazy Hearing Backed By Fub Is A Real Dog

By RONNIE BUTLER

(We were sitting in Jerry's the other night when this guy approached us, stared a few minutes, and said, "We read your column." The fellow's face looked familiar, and for a minute we wondered if we hadn't seen him in the local looney house—in the adjoining cell. Anyway, it turned out that his name was Ray Sisk, that he's stationed up in Maine, and that he gets the Kernel there. It seems that some other guys up there read the Kernel too. So, just because they do, and for no other reason, etoain shrdlu.)

"... and now Fub, the miracle wash soap that contains dirt, brings you 'Washington's Other Senator's Other Senator,' or, 'Who's Lying, Anyhow?'" (Military music, with the sound of marching feet in the background.)

"General, did you receive a telephone call on the night of January 15, 1953?"

"I did."

"What was the nature of the call?"

"I don't know, sir."

"Do you mean to tell this committee that you took the call and don't remember it?"

(Boos from the audience. General's attorney objects. Cheers from the audience.)

"That's right, sir. It was a wrong number."

(Laughter. Chairman of committee calls for order.)

"General, did you receive any telephone calls which you think might be of interest to this committee?"

"Yes, sir, there is one that might have some bearing on this committee's work."

"Would you tell us what it was?"

(Women's chorus breaks in, singing the Fub wash song.)

"Remember, folks, this program is being brought to you by Fub, the only soap that contains genuine fifth built right in. Fub washes clothes cleaner than any other dirt."

(Chorus sings: Fub/Fub/Fub, Fub.)

"On the night of February 16, at on five hundred, I received a telephone call from a certain senator who . . ."

"Just a minute!"

(Audience boos.)

"Suppose you give the name of the senator."

"Well, I really don't like to indulge in name calling, but if you insist—his name is Moe. Moe . . ."

"I OBJECT!" I, MOE, OBJECT!"

(Audience hisses. Chairman pounds gravel for quiet.)

"Now, folks, we want to make sure you remember that Fub is the cheapest soap on the market. We aim to turn out cheap soap, and goodness only knows, we have the cheapest product on the market. So run down to your nearest garbage dump and scoop up a few crusty flakes of Fub, the nastiest soap made."

"What was the nature of the call, General?"

"Moe asked me if I wanted my camp investigated every two weeks. I said no, and he said I'd have to do him a slight favor."

"What kind of favor, General?"

"It seems that the senator has a friend—his best—at Camp Canine, and . . ."

"LIES! LIES! FILTHY, NASTY LIES!"

"And speaking of filthy, nasty stuff, ladies and gentlemen, Fub is the nastiest. If it's something disgusting you're looking for in the way of soap, get a moldy box of Fub. Fub is so repulsive the individual soap flakes won't associate with one another."

"And what, General?"

"He—the senator—asked if I could get this friend of his special passes every weekend, let up on his training, and other things like that."

"And what did you tell the senator, General?"

"I told him to lump it."

"Ladies and gentlemen, while our friends are on the subject of lumps, who not run down to your nearest sewer and get some rotting lumps of Fub? Fub is guaranteed to give you time off from dish washing—while you're out being sick."

"What did the senator say to that?"

"He told me my career might suffer if his committee revealed that I had been kicked out of the Boy Scouts for cheating on my knot tying test."

"What did you say to that?"

"I laughed. I was kicked out for being a subversive. The joke is on the senator."

(Audience laughs. Chorus sings Fub song again, to the tune of "Somewhere Over the Fur-Lined Gutter.")

"General, would you tell us the name of the friend the senator asked special favors for?"

"Yes, sir. His name was Rover D. Whine, Company A, Mutt Platoon, Dog Squad."

"Did you ever excuse R. D. Whine, General?"

"No, sir, I did not."

"Please tell us why."

"It's simple, sir. Rover isn't housebroken yet!"

(Hearing ends as star witness, Rover, accidentally eats a box of Fub and dies . . . to the sadistic delight of 50 million TV viewers.)

Guest Editorial

UL's Med School Is Not Adequate

We have previously described in brief the need for a second medical school in Kentucky and why other plans to meet them without building a second medical school would be only temporary stop-gaps. (Editor's note: The only medical school in Kentucky is at the University of Louisville.)

In our most recent communication, we gave as the opinion of the Fayette County Medical Society that the estimates made by UK's Committee on Medical Education were too low to build and maintain the sort of medical school our University and State should have. We stated that a carefully planned effort would shortly be made to raise money from private sources which would match dollar for dollar the funds obtained from federal grants and from our State Legislature.

Today we are advocating Lexington as the place for a State supported medical school. The University of Kentucky over the years has received money from the State to train young people for teaching, engineering, the law, and farming, but the Legislature has never made a single major appropriation for training our men and women to be doctors. This is neither fairness nor good sense.

The logical place for a state medical school is at the state university. More and more medical educators are realizing the importance of having a medical school on the grounds of the University and not in some distant city. On the same grounds it can offer courses in allied fields to those not in training to be physicians, and the school can receive much help from contact with the schools of pure science and the humanities.

But is Lexington big enough to have enough material for teaching purposes? Our answer to this is two-fold. First, medical schools have been successful in small communities such as Charlottesville, Va., Durham, N. C., Ann Arbor, Mich., Iowa City, Iowa, and now Chapel Hill, N. C.

Second, there are more than 400,000 people within an hour's drive of Lexington.

(Editor's note: Two more guest editorials by the author will deal with other aspects of the proposed medical school for UK.)

DICK WALLNER, '52, left a trail of work as he whirled through a year of telephone training. Here he recalls the variety of his training jobs. (Reading time: 36 seconds)

"Training can really be interesting. I found that out when I joined A.T.&T.'s Long Lines Department after getting my B.A. at Cincinnati and my M.A. at Michigan in '52. Long Lines is the organization specializing in Long Distance communications. I was put in the training program, and there wasn't a dull minute.

"For instance, one of my jobs in the Traffic Department was estimating the exact number of calls that would be placed in a city on Christmas Day. My estimate was off by only 63 calls!

"Then in the Plant Department, I made a study of damage done to a certain cable. Found out that the most damage occurred in an area used by hunters. Some special public relations work among hunters helped improve that situation.

"And in the Commercial Department, I helped analyze the communication problems of one of the largest textile companies—it had widespread offices and plants. The recommendations made are now in use.

"The variety in my training has carried over to my regular job here in Cincinnati. My job is to see that good service is maintained for private line customers—pipeline and power companies, theater TV and the like. Every day is different.

"As far as I am concerned, I've found my career."

Like so many college people who have joined the Bell System, Dick has a job he enjoys. There are also job opportunities with other Bell Telephone Companies, the Bell Telephone Laboratories, Western Electric and Sandia Corporation. This is a good time to see your Placement Officer for full details.

Campus Social Whirl Continues As Derby Weekend Approaches

By ANN O'ROARK

Just dashed in after being caught in one of the proverbial April showers and am dripping flower juice all over poor L. C. Smith (my much battered and ancient typewriter that never has learned how to spell Coliseum the same way twice).

After sweeping two feet of water out of the office, closing the ever open windows and reading the social calendar (under water), it seems that tripping the light fantastic will again take the weekend's honors.

Tonight the Phi Deltas will be ready on the starting line and waiting for the gun to sound for Kentucky's annual four-footed event—the Derby. They have scheduled a Derby dance at Bowling Spring's Country Club to begin at 8 p.m. on the nose (and that's not a bet, wait till tomorrow for that).

The TKE's will hold their Red Carnation Formal at 8:30 p.m. tonight.

KA River Party Scheduled
The KA river party on the calendar for tonight to Clifton (this crazy mixed-up calendar—or is it the people?) was held last Friday night with much fun had by all.

Tomorrow the Phi Deltas will conclude their weekend of celebrating with a picnic at Herrington Lake. They plan to listen to the Derby—well, its much less crowded and expensive than Louisville would be.

The Engineers will hold their annual May Day dance at the concluding event in their yearly open house and celebration. The dance will be in the Ballroom of the Student Union at 8 p.m. tomorrow night. (Rumor has it that they plan to play "I've Been Working on the Railroad" all night).

The DZ's and KD's have both scheduled dinners at their houses at 6:30 p.m. Tuesday and the ZTA's will have one Thursday. Election of May Day Queen will also begin that day at the Student Union ticket booth.

Guignol's last play of the season, "Dream Girl" will open Wednesday night. Curtain time is 8:30 p.m. The new initiates of KS are Carroll Carneal, James Roberts, Wendell Cherry, Ray McWhorter, and Gordon Shirley.

Congratulations are in order to three new fraternity, sweethearts chosen last weekend. They are Gayle Tackett, AGD, Dream Girl of Phi KT; Janet Wood, XO, KS Sweetheart; and Rush Lynch, AGD, PIKA Dream Girl.

Congratulations to the Derby winners—(no, not predicting) the Lambda Chi push cart derby—the AGD and the Deltas—and to the

IT'S ALL A MATTER OF TASTE

They're all the rage with college kids. With girls and men alike. So round, so firm, so fully packed—I speak of Lucky Strike!

Barbara Bennett
Lawrence College

When you come right down to it, you smoke for one simple reason... enjoyment. And smoking enjoyment is all a matter of taste. Yes, taste is what counts in a cigarette. And Luckies taste better.

Two facts explain why Luckies taste better. First, L.S./M.F.T.—Lucky Strike means fine tobacco...light, mild, good-tasting tobacco. Second, Luckies are actually made better to taste better... always round, firm, fully packed to draw freely and smoke evenly.

So, for the enjoyment you get from better taste, and only from better taste, Be Happy—Go Lucky. Get a pack or a carton of better-tasting Luckies today.

The cigarette that really tops the campus hit parade is Lucky Strike. Enjoy the taste because it's better made!

Prof Advises 'Give Art Same Chance As People'

By BILL BILLITER

"If you give art the same chance as you give people, you'll have as many art 'friends' as you do human."

Dr. Donald L. Weisman, head of the Department of Art, offers this bit of advice to the average student—the student who is not an art major but who comes in contact with art daily.

Art exhibits, sculpture displays, and paintings in general often leave the average student cold because he doesn't know what to look for in art work. He sees a few lines, color, and general form, and then attempts to evaluate or take interest in art on this basis.

Understanding Helps

Art, Dr. Weisman points out, is like any other major field of life. If it is understood, then it is more apt to be appreciated.

The department head suggests these four pointers for a better appreciation of art:

1. Don't look for something specific. View a painting or piece of sculpture with open eyes and mind. Look for what the art has to tell you—don't dictate what you expect it to tell you.

2. Don't ask "What is it?" Ask "What is the artist trying to say?" Each piece of art has some message about human experience. Look for that message or suggestion.

3. After you have decided what the artist is trying to say, then interpret how close he came to getting his impression across.

4. Make your final analysis or judgment on what the artist attempted and how well he succeeded.

"Have Tried To Illustrate"

"Since the beginning of art," Dr. Weisman states, "artists have tried to illustrate, clarify, and present various aspects of human experience. All art has this in common. The fact that no two people are exactly alike is what makes so many different types of paintings and sculpture."

Expect Documentation

Too many students today expect documentation in art, Dr. Weisman asserts. According to the art director, documentation by detail painting and sculpture became archaic with the invention of the camera. Artists today are interested in interpretation of scenes and not in a faithful representation of them.

Might Look Like Blobs

A modern painting showing a field of blue sprinkled with bright hues might be looked on as nothing more than "blobs of color" or as a work depicting "the silent poetry of night." If the latter viewpoint in such a painting is taken, Dr. Weisman says, the student has learned to distinguish the vast difference between documentation and interpretation.

The basic difference between good and bad art is the artist himself. Mediocre artists produce mediocre paintings. The student, however, should not judge art on the subject of interpretation but rather on how well the interpretation is carried out.

Giving art a chance, according to Dr. Weisman, is giving the viewer a chance for rich experiences. A good painting can inspire as much satisfaction as a good play or a good book.

The average student, then, can be a better than average art critic.

"THE GUY'LL LOSE HIS SHIRT!"

"...I walks into this haberdasher just off campus, see, and ask for a white shirt. He starts givin' me this song-and-dance about that Van Heusen Century with the soft collar that supposed to not wrinkle ever. The jerk starts shovin' me with some 14-day free trial deal, that if I'm not satisfied after wearing it and washing it for 14 days, he'll gimme my dough back.

"I'm from Brooklyn, see, and I don't trust nobody. I ask the guy, 'What's the catch, buddy?' He says, 'No catch. Wear it as much and as hard as you want. If the collar ever wrinkles or wits, you get your money back. Wash it yourself. It's easy. You just iron the collar flat, flip it, and it folds perfectly because the fold-line's woven in. If not, your money back.'"

"The guy tells me it's the only soft one piece collar in the world, that it lasts up to twice as long as other shirts and only costs $3.95 for whites and $4.95 in colors and superfine whites. I tell him he's nuts to make such a stupid offer. I tell him he'll lose his shirt. It's a kind of joke, see. I figure no shirt will live up to all that malarky.

"And y'know what? I been wearin' and washin' it now for a hundred and fourteen days, and I still can't find nothin' wrong with it."

UK has long been criticized for things it's done and how. But at least the students don't exclaim, Dig that crazy cow!

Running a close second to the Colorado pancake race (by the way, the national champ should be announced any time) is the "Good Milking Derby" now under way at Ohio State University. The Derby, which does not in any way, shape, or form resemble our own Sigma Chi Derby, is open only to young ladies who have a way with cows. A trophy and a blue ribbon will be presented to the maid who gets her cow to cooperate by giving the most milk in a three-minute contest. That's all we need at UK... We'll probably have one next year. Wonder if it would violate any NCAA rules?

Special bulletin to wealthy, famous, and good-hearted of UK alumni! Dean Martin, singing half of the famous Martin and Lewis comedy team, recently made a gift of $5,000 to the Expansion Fund of the College of Steubenville, Ohio. Martin, a graduate of Steubenville High in 1926, indicated that in the future he will make other substantial donations toward "giving my old home town something to remember me by." The expansion fund, set at more than $2,000,000 by 1959, will be used to build four new buildings for the college.

For $5,000 toward a project to replace "the monster," alias Neville Hall, UK students will be glad to remember a few alumni.

Some people have all the luck! An outdoor recreation center for students at Penn State has been donated in the form of 100 acres by the Pennsylvania Department of Forests and Waters. The site, known as Beaver Dam, eventually will provide facilities for swimming, boating, hiking, and camping. The preparation of teachers for outdoor education in schools and training for camp counselors and directors will also be included in the recreation program. To repeat, some people have all the luck!

Several weeks ago, a report was carried of the effigy burning of Senator McCarthy by University of Toronto students. Not to be outdone by a fellow college, irate students at the University of British Columbia undertook another burning. This time the victim was Col. Robert R. McCormick, publisher of the Chicago Tribune and owner of Chicago radio stations WGN and WGN-TV.

McCormick's dummy was stuffed with copies of the Tribune and hung before being set ablaze.

The exhibition was a protest against the Tribune's recent attacks on Lester B. Pearson, Canadian Minister of External Affairs.

In the same vein, a dairy professor at Iowa State College proposes that students eat, rather than drink, their morning cup of coffee. Says he: "Although coffee has gone up, coffee ice cream hasn't."

And at Ohio State University, the most unique solution to the problem is now under observation—the Department of Botany, although a little skeptical, has agreed to serve free coffee, when and if the coffee tree in the greenhouse there grows berries.

Wonder what the administration's reaction would be to a "Little Brazil," alias the campus greenhouse, complete with transplanted coffee trees?

How to hit 'em longer, straighter, consistently!

Italy Won't Become Communist If Gains Continue, Prof Writes

By EUGENE MARVIN

"Italy will not go communist provided the slow but steady gains of the last few years continue," Dr. Daniel Hegeman, professor of German, said in a letter he wrote to his colleague here Dr. John Ubben, while on a year's leave of absence in that country.

"My first reason for believing this," he wrote, "is that the Italian currency is stable. My banker in Switzerland said that the lira is more stable than the French franc. The war destruction is finally being cleared up. The worst destruction we have seen was in Florence at the south end of the famous Ponte Vecchio, but even there modern apartment houses are rising. Many of the railroad passenger cars look just as up-to-date as any we have."

"Found Beautiful Furnishings"

He said that many people had the impression there is awful poverty everywhere, and it is true that the outside of most of the Italian homes does look shabby.

"We were recommended to a 'pensione' in Florence that was housed in a rather unattractive building, but when we entered the apartment we found beautiful furnishings and much more elegance than we are accustomed to at home," he wrote.

"The people of a country which has known so many revolutions and invasions see wisdom in not proclaiming their prosperity to an enemy of a tax-appraiser," he said.

Between Florence and Rome he wrote that he had passed signs announcing the land reform had taken place and that the lands had been distributed (as yet) to the peasants. He said, "Most of the countryside except for the plains of the Po and the Arno are hilly and of poor fertility, but the practice of scientific agriculture is bearing results, and I read that grain production for 1953 was the best on record."

"My final reason for not believing that Italy will not go communist," he wrote, "is based on the psychology of the people. Italians like to blow off steam. Their favorite way of doing that is to print inscriptions on buildings. In many places we saw Down with the European Defense Community and once 'Truman-Hitler.' But they are just as fond of non-political slogans such as 'Viva Coppi' (a bicycle racer) or 'Viva Alfa-Romeo' (the racing-car). As long as the Italian working-man considers himself underpaid, he will protest by voting communist, but he cannot be happy for long under a totalitarian regime that curtails liberty and imposes uniformity as Mussolini found out to his sorrow."

Dr. Hegeman also wrote that Italy is teeming with activity and most of the people seem busy. The people spend much of their lives in the street, and it is there they do their shopping, meet their friends, and gather in groups for political discussions.

"Never Out Of Sight Of Factory"

"In northern Italy from the Alps to Genoa by the way of Milan, we were never out of sight of a factory town or village," he reported. On the highway there were as many trucks (most of them equipped with trailers) as one would find in America."

"The main means of transportation of the male Italian is the 'scooter.' It is a sort of motorcycle with small wheels about 12 inches in diameter. The 'scooter' is also a leading export of post-war Italy to other countries, such as Switzerland.

Whites Beat Blues; Grid Practice Ends

By DICK PURKINS

An underdog White team, coached by line coach "Buckshot" Underwood romped to a 26-6 upset win over backfield coach Ernie Allen's Blues in the annual UK intrasquad game, bringing to a close spring football practice.

It was the smooth quarterbacking of versatile Dick Rushing that meant the difference, as he had a hand in all of the 13 markers scored by the Whites in the first half.

The first marker of the game came with 2:30 left in the initial period, when Rushing passed 14 yards to end Larry Hennessey, climaxing an 80-yard drive. The drive started after Delmar Hughes, opening Blue signal-caller, had tried an unsuccessful field goal.

Before the quarter had ended the Whites had their second score.

Halfback Dick Moloney intercepted a Hughes aerial on Blue 37 and returned it 24 yards to the 13-yard stripe. From there fullback Don Braver plowed to the eight, from where Rushing streaked over to leave the count 13-0 at the end of the quarter. Rushing also kicked the point.

In the second period it was all the Blue's game, but they still couldn't dent the White defense. They held on to the pigskin for 24 out of 29 plays.

On one occasion the Blues moved to the White six-inch line before stalling. The half ended with the Whites still in the fore 13-0.

In the third stanza, the Whites doubled the score with the help of Blue fumbles. Henderson sophomore Jerry Plau scored the first from four yards out and Billy Mitchell from Georgetown, another sophomore tallied from the 11-yard-line. Rushing again kicked the point after Mitchell's TD.

The Blues finally cashed in on a break in the final period. After Don Netoskie had recovered a White fumble on the White 41, unsung Neville Meyers, a sophomore from Harlan entered the fray and engineered the TD in five plays, Netoskie getting the score from the 13. Netoskie's extra point attempt was blocked.

Underwood's Whites opened with Hennessey and Bradley Mills at ends; Duke Curnutte and Pete Kirk at tackles; Jim Milles and Joe Stuart at guards; Dave Kuhn at center; Plau and Moloney at the halves; Ken Williams at fullback; and Rushing at quarterback.

Hatton, Cassady Join South Cagers

Kentucky fans will get a chance to see two of next year's top freshmen candidates face some of the country's outstanding prep stars in the North-South cage classic at Murray, Ky., June 12.

Billy Ray Cassady, who led the Inez Indians to the State championship this year, and Lafayette's great guard, Vernon Hatton, are the Kentucky cagers who will play on the South team. Both have signed grant-in-aid scholarships with the Wildcats.

Bill Florence, 6-8 center from Lafayette, has also been selected for the South squad.

Delmar Gish, whose Central City club won 35 games without a defeat during the regular season before bowing to Inez in the tourney, will pilot the South cagers.

Baseballers Drop Eighth SEC Game As Vandy Cops Two Tilts, 7-5, 8-4

By DAVE NAKDIMEN

Kentucky's baseball Wildcats suffered their third and fourth SEC setback in a row on Monday and Tuesday as Vanderbilt tripped the Cats, 7-5 and 8-4.

The two losses ran Kentucky's season record to four wins and eight losses, only two of the wins being over SEC competition. The sweep for Vandy gave them three victories in four outings against the Wildcats.

The Monday loss was a heart-breaker for Kentucky because they had held a 4-0 lead over the Commodores for six innings. Hugh Coy was working well on the mound for the Cats and had allowed only five hits at this point.

Coy tired in the seventh, loading the bases with none out on a pair of walks and a hit batsman. Coach Harry Lancaster removed him and sent Phil Gravemeyer to the hill. Left fielder Lee Carlson greeted Gravemeyer with a single, scoring a run, and before the inning was over, the Commodores scored twice more on an error and a sacrifice fly.

Vanderbilt won the tilt in the eighth. The Commodores tied the score on a walk, a wild pitch and a single by Hollis Johnson. Gravemeyer got into further hot water and Charles Fightmaster relieved him with two on and two out. Vandy Second Baseman Jim Tancill greeted Fightmaster rudely as he drove the ball over the left-centerfield wall scoring Johnson and Carlson ahead of him.

Trailing 7-4, Kentucky made a futile attempt to get back in the game in the home half of the eighth. Doug Lawhorn walked, moved to second on a wild pitch and scored on Jack Van Meter's single for the Wildcats' fifth and last run.

Kentucky opened up on Vandy starter Bill Keller early, rocking him for four runs in the first four innings. The Cats tallied twice in the initial frame after two were out. Sonny Corum was safe on an error, stole second and then came home on a double by Jerry Calvert. Calvert scored on a one-bagger by Coy.

Kentucky scored another pair in the fourth. First Baseman Bill Bibb and Right Fielder Gary McCreary drew walks and Van Meter plated both as he drilled a double into right center.

Gravemeyer took the loss for Kentucky since he was responsible for the men on base when Tancill unloaded on Fightmaster.

The loss to the Commodores the next day was a different story as Vandy romped for seven runs off Jim Day in the second inning and the Wildcats spent the rest of the afternoon trying to catch up.

Day got through the first inning successfully but in the second, the flood-gates opened. Floyd Teas singled, Jim Miller walked, Jim Looney beat out an infield grounder and Johnson singled to center, scoring two runs. Carlson belted a double scoring another, and Tancill walked, loading the bases. Jerry Caldwell, hitless all season, blasted a slo curve of Day's over the fence for a grand slam homer.

Day remained in the game but went to the showers in the third when the first two Vandy hitters greeted him with singles. Gravemeyer relieved him and pitched brilliant one-hit ball for the remaining seven innings. The Commodores made the one safety count in the seventh when Teas walked and Looney brought him home with a double to left center.

Capt. Miles Willard drove in all the Wildcat runs on a pair of booming homers off Vandy pitcher, 6-4 Charlie Hawkins. Willard belted a solo four-bagger in the third inning and then pickled a Hawkins pitch over the barrier in the seventh with two aboard. Willard also banged a single in five trips.

Kentucky's next game will be against Centre at Danville today. The Cats had two games scheduled with the Colonels last season but both contests were rained out.

NEW NOTES

by lillian

One of the new notes at BARNEY MILLER'S this week is an album of highlights from Broadway's newest success, the lavish and lively musical, THE GIRL IN PINK TIGHTS. This musical boasts one of the most remarkable new stars in years, the entrancing JEAN-MARIE, and it also offers the American debut of one of Europe's finest actors, CHARLES GOLDNER. Production of GIRL IN PINK TIGHTS was planned several years ago with SIGMUND ROMBERG chosen to do the musical score. He died before he could finish, but not without leaving behind the leading ballads and a few other numbers, as well as sketches for most of the rest of the music. DON WALKER who has done arrangements for many Broadway productions including Gentlemen Prefer Blondes and Wonderful Town, orchestrated and completed the Romberg sketches. GIRL IN PINK TIGHTS is set in New York City just after the close of the Civil War and it gives a brisk and fascinating glimpse of post-Civil War theatrical existence. . . . We know you will want to add this new musical to your collection . . . so . . . come and see us . . .

Curry Registers 25; Vol Thinlies Top Cats

By DON HENRY

Kentucky's individual scoring star, Jess Curry, led all scorers again Monday afternoon in Knoxville, Tenn., where the Wildcats dropped their second track meet of the season to the Volunteers. The Cats have won two meets, the first from Sewanee and the other from Morehead.

Curry, who scored 25 points against the Tennessee runners, has led the Kentucky scorers in every meet this season. He has developed into an almost one-man-track show, scoring first in both field and track events.

Monday he took four first places, a second, and tied for second in another event. The Kentucky junior registered firsts in the 100-yd. dash, running the distance in 10 seconds flat, in both the low and high hurdles, and also in the broad jump. His second places were in the javelin and high jump.

Kentucky came into the seventh event of the afternoon sporting a one point lead over Tennessee, but lost this lead and went on to lose 79½ to 51½.

The Volunteer's mile-relay team bested the Wildcat entry with a winning time of 3:22.7, concluding the scoring for the afternoon.

Other scorers for Kentucky were Capt. Don Weaver whose 44 ft. 10 in. throw in the shot put was good enough for first. Tom Harper, Kentucky's Billy Mitchell won the high jump with a height of 5 ft. 9½ in., and Joe Platt finished third in the broad jump behind Curry's winning leap of 20 ft. 10½ in.

Lou Karibo locked in a three-way tie for second place in the pole vault, which was won by Sonny McCowan, Tennessee, registering a height of 10 ft. 6 in.

Eddie Ernst of Kentucky captured the 220 yd. run covering the distance in 23.2 seconds. Ernst also finished third in the 440 yd. run. Don Atkinson took a third place in the 880, and Billy Fisher rounded out the Kentucky scoring with a third in the 120 yd. low hurdles.

Kentucky has two more meets remaining to be played this season. They will meet Vanderbilt this weekend, and then will be involved in a triangular meet with Hanover College (Ind.) and Cincinnati the following week.

PiKA Tops Standings In I-M Softball Action

By GEORGE KOPER

The on and off antics of the I-M softball league got on to stay last Monday night.

After opening night difficulties with the lighting set-up on the football practice field forced play to be discontinued for several days, all leagues finally got first round play under way.

Delta Tau Delta, last year's fraternity champions, split two games. The Deltas downed the ZBT's 6-3 and were set back 1-0 by PKA. PKA added another win with a 9-3 decision over PKT.

KS scored two victories with wins over SX and PDT. KS downed SX 7-1 and edged PDT 9-7.

SAE, KA, PSK, Tri and Farm House also scored initial triumphs. SAE turned back AGR 7-1; KA nosed out ATO 2-1; PSK trimmed SN 12-2; Tri beat SX 9-3 and Farm House shut out LXA 9-0.

Wrestling Opens

First round action in wrestling started last Tuesday with additional matches scheduled for last night and next week.

Doug Witt, SAE, and Ken Glass, SX, won their way to the finals of the 125 pound class with Tuesday night decisions. Witt defeated Bobby Simmons, DTD, and Glass pinned S. Noel, AGR.

In the 135 pound class John Lorch, AGR, pinned Ellis Easterly, KS, and C. A. Eldridge, SX, defeated Scott Green, PKT, to reach the semis.

Only one match was scheduled in the 155 class Jim Waldron, ATO, taking a close decision from Sherill Ward, SAE.

John Rankin, SX, received a forfeit from Ray Trout, DTD, in the 165 class. Other matches in this class went to P. L. Turner, Ind., over Al Harmon, SX, and Howard Tatum, ATO, who defeated Earl Cox, PKT.

Defending champion Ted Kinn, PDT, received a forfeit from Tom Neal, DTD, in the first round of the 175 class. Dorsy King, PKT, upset Ray Meyers, SX, in the other match in this weight. Meyers won the 165 crown last year.

The intramural track and field meet will be held on Stoll Field May 10 and 11. Bob Clark, I-M director has announced.

Entries Due By May 5

Entries for the event must be turned in at the intramural office in Alumni Gym by Wednesday, May 5. Each organization is limited to a maximum of four entries in each event. Individuals will be allowed to enter two running events and one field event or two field events and one running event in addition to running in the 880 yard relay.

Other events beside the relay, including the I-M record for each event, are: 120 yard low hurdles (Harry Jones, SAE, 1951-14.8); 100 yard dash (Emory Clark, DTD, 1949-10.3); 660 yard run (Jay Wallace, SN, 1949-1.33); 220 yard dash (Gene Neff, PKT, 1928) Broad Jump (Larry Jones, SAE, 1951-21'6"); High Jump (Skip Whittaker, SAE, 1949-5'11"); 12 pound shot put (Walt Yaworsky, Ind., 1950-47'9"); Discus (George Lawson, SX, 1951-132'11"); relay (SAE, 1951-1:37.3).

SIDELINE SLANTZ!

John K. Ryans

The annual Blue-White game played last Saturday night was one of the finest of the series. Most UK fans left the game with the feeling that the prospects for next fall were a lot better than many people have prophesied. The game was a great deal closer than the score of the game indicated. Actually the Blues picked up more yardage than the Whites, but made too many costly fumbles. Coach Blanton Collier said this week that the two main differences in the two teams were the injuries to key Blue players and the lack of leadership among Blue performers. Injuries early in the game to Dick Mitchell, Al Zampino, and Joe Koch definitely hurt the Blues chances in the game.

On the other side, however, Quarterback Dick Rushing, a transplanted fullback, did an outstanding job of leading the White forces, until he was injured late in the game. His take charge attitude was a big factor in the White success. Dick Moloney, long a standout defensive back, played a great all-around game in one of the White halfback slots. Other players singled out by Wildcat coaches for their outstanding performances were Bradley Mills, Harry (Pete) Kirk, and J. T. Frankenberger of the Whites; and Neil Lowry and Don Netoskie of the Blues. Mills and Kirk played their usual outstanding game, while Frankenberger showed indications of blossoming into a front-line tackle. Lowry was outstanding in the Blue line, while Netoskie did a fine job at his halfback post.

If the Cats show the improvement next fall that they have shown this spring, they might have a surprise for Maryland in the opener.

A couple of members of the Lexington Colts of the Class C Mountain States League need no introduction to UK students. They are John Paul Jones and Benny Zaranka. Jones is a former journalism student here at UK and has been playing professional baseball for the past few summers. A native of Beattyville, he is handling the first base chores for the Colts and is battling in the clean-up spot. Zaranka is remembered as an outstanding Wildcat end and baseball performer. He has also had quite a bit of professional experience the past few summers and is handling the middle garden for the Colts. Incidentally, it looks as if Lexington has a top-notch entry in the league and might take the pennant their first season. The Colts were very impressive in their opener last Sunday on the local diamond, as they beat Kingsport, Tenn., by a 14-2 count.

The annual basketball banquet will be held on Monday night at 6:30 (CDT) in the Student Union Ballroom. Walter Stewart, sports editor of the Memphis Commercial Appeal, will be the principal speaker at the banquet. It will have added emphasis this year, as Wildcat fans will have an opportunity to pay tribute to UK's undefeated national champion team. Stewart has long been one of the few deep South friends of Kentucky athletics and championed Kentucky's stand during its cage troubles. At the same time the various trophies and awards will be presented to the individual players.

Jess Curry, UK's one-man track team, continued his top-notch play in the Tennessee meet held Monday in Knoxville. Curry scored a total of 25 points, which was almost half of UK's entire total for the meet. He was winner of the broad jump, 100-yard dash, 120-yard high hurdles, and the 220-yard low hurdles. He finished second in the javelin throw and tied for second in the high jump. Curry was an All-State track man in high school and shows that he has lost none of his lustre, since coming to UK.

A couple of virtually unknown Wildcat gridders, Jerre Plau and Neville Meyers, did a good job in the intrasquad tilt. Plau started for the Whites at one halfback spot and did a very capable job. Myers took over the quarterback slot for the Blues in the last quarter and directed them to their only score. He showed that although he was short on experience, he had the courage and take charge ability that a good quarterback needs.

Two more outstanding prospects have signed UK basketball grant-in-aids for the coming season. The most recent addition is Vernon Hutton, 6-3½, who was an All-State player on this year's Lafayette General five. He has been called by many as the top high-school cager in the nation. UK has also announced the signing of 6-7 Ed Beck of Ft. Valley, Georgia. The signing of these two performers gives UK nine freshmen players signed for next year. Every player signed thus far stands 6-2, or better, which shows UK plans to have a big team in future years. Another top-flight cager, John Lee Butcher, has been signed to a football scholarship, but will probably play basketball here also. He is 5-11.

Horses Are Confident As Derby Time Nears

By BILL BURLISON

Again this year as in years previous, the time has come to pick the winner of the Derby.

This year it is easier to get to talk to the horses, since I took Royal Bay Gem's advice and bet everything I had on the feed-bag. I couldn't afford to leave.

The five favorites in this year's Derby are Correlation, Goyamo, Fisherman, Determine, and Hasty Road. Black Metal and Timely Tip also have their backers.

Correlation said, "I will have a tough time beating these other horses. But is there any doubt? I will win it by a length." With these words the big horse turned back to his oats under glass.

"I have been having some bad luck," said Fisherman. "I can come through under pressure though. Just because I am a small horse don't think I cannot run. Will win in a walk." With these words the little horse asked me for supper, but I had already had my oats for the day.

Goyamo brought back painful memories. He runs just as a certain horse I bet on last year. He closes with a rush but very seldom finishes better than second. "I believe that I can run a little better now and am at my peak," the horse told me. "Don't count me out of the money."

Determine Said

I found Determine crying over his close defeat in the Derby Trials. The horse was right bitter. "I ran the best race of my life Tuesday. I am at my peak. If that Hasty Road tries to stick his nose in front of me tomorrow, I will cut it off. At the end of the race I was so mad I could eat horse-radish." He ended the interview by saying, "I will win the Derby." I remembered, however, that no grey has won the Derby.

Hasty Road was found taking it easy and getting a sun tan on the roof of his stable. "I often come up here to get away from it all," he said. "I think those blinkers they let me wear Tuesday helped. I will run a good race Saturday." Then he pulled his hat down over his eyes and appeared to go to sleep. I took this subtle hint and left.

Timely Tip was not too confident. The horse seemed to be worried over the race. "I am running against some awfully good horses and I don't know what will happen. I sure hope it rains," he said peering anxiously at the sky. The horse runs well in the mud. "One thing is sure. I will try my best. I promised all the horses in Shelbyville that I would give them each a rose and I hate to disappoint them." The horse and I chatted for a few more minutes, and then I had to go find Black Metal.

Black Metal Rests

I found the horse sipping a coke and enjoying life immensely. "I like the attention a Derby horse gets. I believe everyone making a fuss over the favorites will hurt them considerably. I have as much chance as everyone. If I can just run like I did in Florida." Black Metal showed up well in Florida and looked good, but doesn't appear as sharp as was expected.

One horse I wanted to see was James Session. I found him posing for some photographers. The horse loves to be photographed. "Harry and Betty don't expect me to win," he said speaking of his owners Betty Grable and Harry James. "They think it is just an honor to run in the race. I could surprise them though and win. It just depends on how I feel. Betty would kiss me though. She always does when I win a race. It is sort of inspiring don't you think? I will try and do my best. I must go back and get my picture made so excuse me." With a happy neigh the horse trotted over to a photographer.

Hasty Road To Win

So with the words from the horses still ringing in my ears, I have sold my convertible and white bucks and will bet on Hasty Road.

The horses that hang around the stables told me the order of finish will be Hasty Road, Timely Tip, Correlation, and Goyamo. And who should know better? Here is your sure thing.

If these turn out wrong and by an accident they do not finish in this order you will find me in the first stable on the left. I will be there until next year.

Netters Beat Xavier, 6-3

The University of Kentucky's tennis team, after losing two matches over the week-end, came back strong to defeat Xavier 6-3 on the Memorial Coliseum courts last Wednesday.

The Cats were edged out by Western at Bowling Green Friday 5-4 and were blanked by Vanderbilt 9-0 at Nashville Saturday. Both games were played without the services of Bill Evans, Kentucky's ace netter.

Kentucky, having a 1-4 win-loss record, then entertained Xavier and took five of the six singles matches to defeat the Musketeers and rack up the second win of the season.

Kentucky played Miami (Ohio) yesterday at Miami, but the results of the game were not available. Next game for the Cat racketeers will be next Monday when the Cats play host to Marshall.

New Grid Assistant Had Success As Prep Mentor

By BILL SURFACE

Looking forward towards the forthcoming grid season with much anticipation, Matt Lair, recently hired as an assistant football coach at the University should prove to be a top ranking line mentor, if he is as successful in the coaching school mentors in Alabama last fall before being added to the Wildcat staff by head coach Blanton Collier. Lair compiled an enviable record during his five years of coaching, including a one year stop at Du Pont Manual High in Louisville during the '52 campaign.

Although his coaching ability is recognized by many football followers, the former guard was a star in his right for several seasons at Paris (Ky.) High, gaining All-State grid honors in his senior year. Lair played two campaigns, under A. B. Kirwan, before the second World War interrupted his collegiate career. The sturdy lineman, however, returned for the '46 and '47 seasons, gaining letters both years.

The former UK standout, who became familiar with Collier's system of play at Paris, said he was grateful to return to UK and considered it a real privilege to be associated with Collier again.

The Paris native is in charge of tutoring tackles here at UK and from the performance the linemen displayed Saturday night in the annual Blue-White intra-squad tilt, the Wildcat line will probably be one of the stronger portions of the club next fall, when the school tackles its toughest schedule in the University's history.

Lair expressed an opinion that aggressiveness is the major item a tackle must possess before he could ever reach stardom.

Godiva Was Known As Blonde Bombshell

By BILL BILLITER

Once upon a time in the city of Coventry there lived a blonde bombshell named Godiva. Godiva was really a curvaceous cutie, and she was known throughout jolly old England as a frantic de-icer.

Unfortunately, Godie girl was hitched to a schmo, Leofric, lord of Coventry, was her ever-lovin' husband, but he was generally known as the Coventry Creep. Leofric thought that money was the most, and so he taxed and re-taxed his people.

Needless to say, the pitiful peasants of Coventry didn't warm up to his gold grabbing. In short, Leofric's super taxes went over like so many lead balloons. The only thing that kept him from being bumped off was his 24-hour bodyguard of armed hoods.

Godiva Wasn't Happy
Godiva wasn't shot with the idea of having a miser for a spouse. In fact, she begged and pleaded her penny-pinching husband to take up golf and forget all about his dreams of dough. But the poor kid yapped in vain. Leofric only giggled with glee and ordered a new tax.

Gradually, the taxes became so high that the peasants didn't have enough lettuce to con a loaf of bread. People were dropping off like flies, and those that were still alive looked like they were strictly from the graveyard.

Finally, a group of subjects approached Godiva and asked her to help them out. Godiva agreed to get on the stick and plead for them.

She Pitched A Tizz
She went to Leofric and straight-forth pitched a tizzy.

"Thou art a bum, Leofric," Godie yelled. "Thy people are kicking yon bucket right and left for lack of jellyroll. Truly thou art a square if thou doesn't cut out taxation."

Leofric listened, laughed, and said, "Godiva, thou art a jewel! Thy wit amazes me. But can yon corn and tune in to my proposition. I will stop my taxes if thou consentest to riding yon white horse, Trigger, down Main Street—without any duds on."

Poor Godiva! She was really up salt creek. But being a shrewd sister, she figured a way out. She issued a proclamation ordering all the yokels inside white she rode in the raw.

A mountaineer saw his first avocado in the general store and seemed quite puzzled about it.

"Wanna try one?" asked the storekeeper.

"Nope," was the reply. "I got so many tastes now I can't satisfy, I ain't aimin' to take on any more."

The young couple had been out of jobs for quite some time. The frugal wife had been preparing hamburger in as many ways as she knew how.

On the 12th day she served still another version of the meat. Her husband surveyed it apathetically and murmured, "How now, ground cow?"

And then there was the 3-D movie with the really surprising ending. The killer was found out in the audience.

Yesterday I cleaned my shotgun on the front porch, and today my daughter had eight proposals.

"I'm majoring in history."
"So am I."
"Well, let's get together and talk over old times."

'Dan'l' Boone Show Brings Award To RA Department

Special recognition in the field of educational broadcasting has been given the UK Department of Radio Arts for its documentary program, "Dan'l Boone's Reunion With Kentucky."

An honorable mention citation was awarded to the department this week during the 18th annual American Exhibition of Educational Radio-Television programs in connection with the annual Institute for Education sponsored by Ohio State University.

The award-winning program, written and produced by students and faculty members of the Radio Arts Department, was aired last fall by WBKY, University station, and 42 Kentucky commercial stations.

Show Backed Campaign
Entered in the category "special one-time broadcasts," the UK-produced show promoted the successful campaign last year to change Section 186 of the State Constitution, dealing with the distribution of common school funds.

Judges at the Ohio State University Institute commended UK radio representatives for their dramatic departure from the usual presentation of public service programs.

"Dan'l Boone's Reunion With Kentucky" was portrayed as a fantasy, interwoven with an appeal to the voters to go to the polls and aid the Kentucky school situation.

The citation accompanying the honorable mention award reads: "This script is to be commended for its sincere approach to and recognition of stimulating men and women toward accepting their responsibilities as citizens."

"Its use of fantasy represents an unusual departure from the usual type of radio programs with effective success."

Program Was Requested
Radio Arts produced the educational program on request from the Kentucky Council for Education, which was involved in putting across the change-Section-186 campaign.

Students and faculty members cooperated in the writing and perfecting of the original script, based on an idea of Larry Sloan, then a graduate student at UK.

Stuart Hallock, radio instructor, produced and cast the program. Dramatic musical background and bridges were selected by Forrest Thompson, music major from Martinsville, Va.

Among members of the cast were Ray Holbrook, UK graduate, now assistant program director at WVLE, Lexington; Lynn Sleeth, radio arts major from Charleston, W. Va.; and Bert Harber, radio arts graduate.

Engineering was handled by Charlie Fitch, student from Evansville, with sound effects by Jim Hatchel of Madisonville.

UK Was Judging Center
UK served as one of the seven coordinating judging centers for the Ohio State University Institute. All programs entered in national competition in a cultural series category were forwarded here for judging and evaluation.
